

Unable To Break Deadlock

Britisher Tells Commons Details Of Dispute Over Peace Treaties

LONDON, Oct. 9—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told Commons today that President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Generalissimo Stalin had been unable to break the deadlock over procedure which collapsed the recent conference of Allied foreign ministers.

Just before Bevin began his formal report on the meeting, Attlee said the government "will of course be happy" to discuss with the United States the future of atomic power.

Bevin outlined to the crowded and anxious house details of the dispute which arose over the question of whether all five leading Allied nations would participate in peace treaties for the Balkans, Italy and Finland, or only those which were signatories to specific armistices.

"An agreement could not be reached between the three foreign ministers," Bevin said. "They referred the matter to the three heads of government and they took the same view."

Agreed On Secret

President Truman said yesterday that the United States had no intention of giving to other Allies the secret of the atomic bomb, a secret already shared with Great Britain and Canada which helped develop the weapon. Mr. Truman said he had not discussed the question with British and Canadians, but was certain they agreed with his position.

Attlee said the British government had kept in close touch with the United States on the subject and was "pursuing our own studies through the advisory committee" which he created recently to study atomic power.

Responding to a question, he promised a more detailed statement later. He added:

"In this matter, we want to keep in the closest possible contact with our friends in the United States and Canada."

The United States spent $2,000,000,000 developing the atomic bomb. No estimate of the expense to Britain and Canada has been published.

CC Nominating Committee

At a regular meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, held at noon today at the Bothwell hotel, a nominating committee was selected to prepare ballots to be forwarded to members for the election of a new board. Those named on the committee are: Joseph L. Rosenthal, chairman, Paul Hedderich, C. A. Wright, G. H. Trader, L. W. Richardson.

The board discussed many civic matters, among them renewed activity in raising a large post-war industrial development fund. Ben Robinson, in charge of this project, is completing plans to have solicitations made by December 1.

I. H. Reed, president of the board, presided.

Fined After Car Collision

E. H. Blaue, route 3, was fined $25 in police court this morning on a charge of careless driving and Francis C. Smith, 507 South Park avenue, $5 and costs in the court of Judge C. W. Bente, sitting as ex-officio justice of the peace, on a charge of not having a state driver's license. Both men were arrested following an accident at Main street and Quincy avenue about 8 o'clock this morning.

Blaue was driving a 1938 Plymouth sedan, headed south on Quincy avenue and Smith was headed east on Main street driving a 1937 Chevrolet coach, when the accident occurred.

About $50 damage resulted to the Blaue car while the damage to Smith's car was estimated at about $150.

Strike Settled

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9—(AP)—A 10-year-old dispute started after a strike which in May, 1935, closed every lead and zinc mine and smelter in the tri-state area of Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas came to an end today with acceptance by the CIO and the National Labor Relations board of a $250,000 settlement with the Eagle-Picher mining companies.

Snyder Leaves Hurriedly

TIPTONVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 9—(AP)—Reconversion Director John W. Snyder left President Truman's party by plane today for Washington on "urgent business." Snyder's unexpected departure was announced by Charles G. Ross, the president's press secretary, who told reporters he did not know the nature of Snyder's mission.

"Mr. Snyder had two or three calls in the course of the morning," Ross said. "He drove to Dyersburg, Tenn., where he boarded a special plane for the capital."

In response to questions, he said he did not know if the calls had any relation to the labor situation.

Picketing an Insult, Sen. Hart Declares

Demands Arrest, Declares Behavior Is Contemptuous

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 9—(AP)—Senator H. R. Williams, (R) of Cassville, majority floor leader, suffered a slight heart attack just before noon today after having made a bitter speech on the senate floor excoriating union picketers parading in front of the capitol.

Williams rested for a while at a physician's office and later went to his hotel room. His secretary said that he expected to return to the senate tomorrow.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 9—(AP)—Pickets marching before Missouri's state capitol roused the senatorial ire today, with Sen. H. B. Hart (R) of Versailles demanding their arrest for what he called contemptuous behavior.

Hart introduced a resolution proposing that the pickets be brought before the senate and tried under a constitutional provision that permits the senate to fine non-members up to $300 and sentence them to not more than ten days in jail.

"You're not insulted down in the Ozarks until you're knocked down and stomped in the face," he declared, "but this (picketing) is certainly worse than an insult."

As a climax to his speech, Hart introduced a group of visiting American Legion officials.

Sen. H. R. Williams of Cassville, Republican floor leader, first brought the picketing to the senate's attention. He said he had noticed them yesterday, marching back and forth in front of a sidewalk repair project on which work was halted when union truck drivers refused to cross the picket line.

Sounds Warning

"I want to sound a warning to the people of this state that we in America now are faced with a more dangerous situation than when our boys were fighting for so-called democracy all over this world..." Williams said.

"We're derelict in our duty if we don't put legislation in here now that will protect these boys

No Sharing of Bomb Secret With Nations

Truman Declares No Ally Has Asked For This Knowledge

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

TIPTONVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 9—(AP)—The world had notice today from the lips of President Truman himself that the secret of the atomic bomb will not be shared with other nations.

The president set the record straight at an unprecedented press conference in the heart of the Reelfoot lake hunting and fishing preserve in which he also:

1. Made it clear that neither Russia nor any other ally had asked for the engineering know-how that led to the perfection of the bomb.

2. Designated James F. Brynes, secretary of state, to initiate discussions with Great Britain and Canada, partners in the fateful discovery, looking into the outlawing of its use.

3. Scoffed at reports the London meeting of the foreign ministers of United States, China, Russia, Great Britain and France was a failure.

4. Declared that there never has been a clash of American and Russian interests and expressed the hope there never would be.

5. Expressed concern that Russia has been badly misrepresented in this country as we have been in Russia and attributed misunderstandings to differences in languages and difficulties in translation.

6. Expressed confidence that management and labor will adjust difficulties which have led to reconversion-retarding strikes—difficulties which he laid in large measure to a natural let-down similar to those that have followed every war in history.

These momentous pronouncements came unexpectedly from a wholly unexpected news conference last night at Mrs. T. O. Norris' private lodge at Tiptonville, where reporters had been invited by the president for what was supposed to have been an off-the-record gabfest.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, who apparently had shared the reporter's belief, seemed a bit surprised himself when the president decided to go on the record.

The president, outwardly unaware that he had said anything that would cause much of a commotion, invited reporters to stay around for a while. He looked a bit hurt when they made a mad rush from the screened porch of his lodge with little ceremony.

They hopped into waiting automobiles and dashed 29 miles to Union City, nearest telegraphic filing point of consequence, to send their stories.

No Sharing With Ally
Mr. Truman began his press conference by saying, in response to a question, that he has no intention of sharing the engineering and industrial know-how, the only real secret of the bomb, with any ally.

He reemphasized this repeatedly under questioning, then pointed

Four Million Welcome Nimitz to New York

Chief Police Inspector John J. O'Connell estimated 4,000,000 persons acclaimed the Pacific hero on his triumphal, 22-mile motor ride from La Guardia airport to city hall and then up Fifth avenue to the Waldorf Astoria.

No Objection To Department Of Education

Senate Passes Four Bills on New System Without Opposition

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 9—(AP)—A new state department of education devised by framers of Missouri's 1945 constitution is half-way along the road to enactment into law.

Four bills carrying the main outlines of the new system were passed yesterday by the senate and sent to the house without a murmur of opposition. They deal with the first of the 14 new executive departments under the 1945 charter to win senate approval.

When passed by the house and signed into law, the measures would authorize the governor to appoint an eight-member, bipartisan board of education to serve eight-year staggered terms. The board members, all laymen, then would select a professional school man to be state education commissioner and fix his salary.

The new system automatically does away with one state official who is elected at present—the state superintendent of schools—and reduces the number of elected officers from seven to six.

Close To Constitution
The bills stick close to the language of the new constitution, but that did not prevent a controversy last week when Sen. Edgar J. Keating (D) of Kansas City drove through an amendment to limit the policy making power of the new board to the lines laid down by the legislature.

Another controversy flared yesterday as soon as the department of education bills had been passed without a dissenting vote. It arose on a bill to fix a school tax ceiling of $1 per $100 assessed valuation for cities and 65 cents for rural areas.

The limits could be exceeded by any amount if two-thirds of the voters approved and it was this flexibility that drew the fire of Sen. Frank J. Wilkinson (D) of Kansas City. He objected that the sky would be the limit under such a plan. With no maximum, he said, Kansas City's peacetime industrial development would be hampered.

The bill was laid over by its sponsor, educational committee chairman W. W. Sunderwirth (R) of Eldorado Springs, in an attempt to work out a solution of the Jackson county problem.

Trials for War Criminals Will Surprise Japs

Men Are Given A Legal Hearing; Unprecedented Step

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
The Japanese who ordered the execution of American fliers who raided Tokyo with General Doolittle in the early days of the war probably are suffering from an incomprehensible surprise today.

Although an accused man's right to defense by counsel of his own choosing is an axiomatic part of Anglo-Saxon justice, one wonders sometimes whether such motives are completely beyond the ken of other peoples. It would be interesting to know how Tokyo newspapers handled the story of General Yamashita's arraignment in Manila, defended by an American officer who also obtained the defense services of two Japanese generals who are themselves suspected of war crimes.

If there are those in Japan who have not entirely forgotten the bushido decree of fairness toward a conquered enemy, then the incident might have tremendous propaganda value. Especially if the Japanese could be made to realize that it is not a special case for the benefit of a man whom they might expect to receive such treatment. They might be even more surprised if apprised of the skillful maneuvering of American defense counsel for Kramer of Belsen.

Machinery Rolling
Similar machinery is beginning to roll at Nuernburg in infinitely difficult circumstances. There, for the first time, men are to be given a legal hearing on a charge of committing the crime of war. It is an unprecedented step, comparable to the times when men, lacking formal codes of law, first began to try offenders in the light of community conscience.

Justice Robert Jackson proposes to use what, in Anglo-Saxon court procedure, is one of the most difficult of all charges to prove—conspiracy. He proposes to do it, in a manner of speaking, under the rules of equity which have grown up principally in connection with civil infringement of one man's rights by another. He is proceeding on the principle that this is just another case of establishing legal precedent through application of crystallized public opinion to an offense which is newly recognized as personal crime. Hitherto war has been treated as a national crime on the part of the nation which lost. War conducted by a dictatorship which holds even its own nation prisoner presents a new problem to be approached through new methods.

Legally Regular
There is every evidence that the Nuernburg trials are to be conducted with the greatest of care for legal regularity. Defendants are not to be punished merely because they lost a war. They are to be punished only if the trials establish, in a manner which will stand the light of historic examination, that they are guilty of acts outlawed by international conscience as expressed in the pacts which, unviolated, would have prevented war and its accompanying atrocities.

The picture of American lawyers in uniform ably defending their erstwhile enemies, the care with which outraged feelings are separated from legal procedure contrast with such examples as the Laval trial, where judge and jury rise to shout down a man not as yet convicted.

Anglo-Saxon trial procedure, sufficiently advertised, may prove a potent Allied propaganda weapon.

Labor Disputes at a Glance

By the Associated Press
Labor disputes across the country keep about 425,000 workers away from their jobs, compared to record 1945 high of 550,000 last week.

Main disputes:

Coal — 177,000 coal miners out of more than 675 pits in six states in 19th day of shutdowns; additional steel mills close; secretary of Labor Schwelbenbach says prospects "brighter" as management-labor conferences continue.

Shipping — New York port, the world's busiest, jammed with unmoved freight and ships in ninth day of dock strike; place embarks go on all freight shipments for export.

Motion Pictures — Striking movie workers, after second outbreak of violence in which scores hurt, summoned back to picket lines as tension mounts in eight-month-old AFL jurisdictional dispute.

Automotive — No major work stoppages in Detroit for first time in six weeks but CIO workers union, seeking 30 per cent wage rate increases in auto industry has filed NLRB strike votes in the "Big Three" — Ford, General Motors, Chrysler.

Lumber — Striking AFL lumber union presses to spread stoppages as 61,000 remain out third week; three large CIO-manned plants closed.

Laval to Die For Treason

PARIS, Oct. 9—(AP)—Pierre Laval was condemned to death tonight for intelligence with the enemy and attacking the security of France.

The former Vichy chief of government, who before the war was three times premier of France, had boycotted the trial after the opening days and had been confined to a dungeon beneath the Palace of Justice.

A jury of 12 members of parliament and 12 from the resistance movement took little time to seal the doom of the man accused of treason. The same court during the summer condemned former Marshal Petain, Laval's superior in the Vichy regime, but Gen. De Gaulle commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Laval was stripped of all citizenship rights and his property was confiscated.

It took the jury only 62 minutes to decide the trial which the white-tied defendant had called a "judicial crime."

Investigating Assassination

By Clyde Farnsworth
CHUNGKING, Oct. 9—(AP)—A panel of physicians and witnesses was summoned to an autopsy to determine the type of gun used in yesterday's puzzling assassination of Li Shao Shih, secretary-general of the Chinese Communist party's Chungking headquarters, a man who reputedly had no enemies.

Two American doctors were invited to participate, and Chungking sources pointed out that such extreme attention to witnessing removal of the bullet grew from the fear of both Communists and Chungking government authorities that one side or the other might term the slaying a political crime.

Li was killed by a fusillade through the back of a Communist-owned sedan in which he was riding through the quiet Shapingba university section of Chungking late yesterday. His death came at a time when Communists and China's general government were reported drafting a communique announcing an accord resulting from five weeks of unification conferences.

Groups Investigating

It was the first open assassination of a Chinese Communist leader since 1937. Investigating are the Chungking police, gendarmes, courts and the Communists themselves. All four groups were represented at today's autopsy.

His chauffeur, reported to have disappeared after the shooting, is sought to learn if he can furnish any clues to the assassins. The chauffeur reportedly is an employee of Communist headquarters known technically as headquarters of the 18th group army.

Li, of whom a Communist newspaper wrote "he had no known enemies," was shot through the chest at 5 p. m. after having taken a friend home in his automobile. He died an hour and 45 minutes later in a hospital.

Uncover Japanese Reserves

Allies Seeking Records to Learn If it is Loot From Conquered Lands

TOKYO, Oct. 9—(AP)—Allied authorities today uncovered and impounded Japanese gold, silver and platinum reserves totaling more than $250,000,000 and sought Nipponese army and navy records to determine whether the reserves included loot from conquered lands.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced that the seized treasure will be held up until Allied governments send instructions on its disposition.

Allied officers said they were "astounded" to learn that the Japanese army and navy have not accounted to their government for a single penny of their expenditures since 1937.

"The finance ministry told us that they had no records at all as to what balances the army and navy had, and the finance ministry did not know that the army or navy had a single ounce of precious metals," a headquarters spokesman said. A part of the reserves were found in army and navy buildings.

Other Stores

Other stores were located in military arsenals and warehouses of Tokyo and Osaka precious metals companies.

The seizure, made quietly and without interference, was intended to prevent possible disappearance of the treasure, headquarters said.

Included in the seized reserves, headquarters said, were those of the Japanese government, army, navy and Bank of Japan—plus reserves in the Bank of Japan belonging to the Bank of Thailand (Siam), Bank of Indo China, Federal Reserve Bank of China, Bank of Italy, and Bank of Chosen (Korea).

Headquarters said that rounding up of the treasure which began with the recent closing of banks, continued today when U. S. Sixth and Eighth army troops surrounded imperial army headquarters, Tokyo military arsenals, and Tokyo and Osaka precious metals companies' warehouses.

Gold Platinum, Silver
The Allies seized more than 58,000 ounces of gold bullion, silver bullion and gold coin, which in itself is worth more than $250,000,000. In addition there were 33,400 ounces of platinum, and 27,122,417 Japanese yen, in silver coin.

Actual location of the reserves was pointed out by responsible officials after detachment commanders and other personnel entered the buildings, the headquarters announcement related. A heavy guard was then placed around the buildings to halt all movement in or out until the treasure was located and the rest of the building could be reopened for normal business.

When General MacArthur ordered the Bank of Japan temporarily closed, its vaults were studied to obtain records of assets belonging in banks and financial institutions which had been active in financing Japanese war production abroad.

Star Farmer Named Tonight

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9—(AP)—Business sessions today occupied delegates to the 18th annual national convention of the Future Farmers of America.

Among business slated for discussion were plans for a victory convention next year which is expected to attract the largest group ever to attend one of the national meetings. Attendance this year was limited to about 100 because of crowded travel conditions.

Highlight of the convention tonight will be the naming of the star farmer of America, highest honor that can be won by an American farm boy. Three regional star farmers will be named and other awards to be conferred will include star farmer honors for Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — The inside story of what happened behind the closed doors at the Big Five conference is now leaking out. Actually, from the moment the five foreign ministers sat down, they were in trouble. They never had a single profitable session during the three weeks they met. At times the atmosphere became so ragged that both Jimmy Byrnes and Ernest Bevin threatened to walk out. Toward the end, issues became so befogged that these men, supposed to be the top statesmen of the United Nations, engaged in wild, irresponsible statements.

As usual at recent Allied conferences, the American delegation didn't know exactly what it wanted and didn't know how to get it. American diplomats were content to play a defensive game. The British knew what they wanted, but were afraid to make the moves necessary to get it. Therefore they tried to act as mediators, keeping friendly with both the U. S. and the U. S. S. R. and coming off fairly well except for blustering foreign minister Bevin, who lost his temper repeatedly. President Truman, after Potsdam, described Bevin as "the rudest man I ever met."

The Russians knew what they wanted and came prepared to sabotage and obstruct until they got it.

Discussion got so bitter that at one time, Molotov proposed that Russia play a part in governing the Panama canal — if the United States refused to let Russia have its way in the Dardanelles. Near the end of the conference, Molotov sarcastically remarked to one English diplomat, "Byrnes wants to push democracy in the Balkans to see how it works there before he tries it in the state of South Carolina."

Troubles Began at Once

Trouble began right off the bat over procedure. At Potsdam it had been definitely decided that the London conference was to concern itself only with peace treaties for Italy, Bulgaria and Romania — in that order. However, the Russians came prepared to discuss problems all over the world. And when Molotov opened up on other subjects, Byrnes and Bevin brought him up with a sharp reminder of the Potsdam agreement.

But, countered Molotov, the Yalta and Moscow conference agreements also called for regular meetings of the foreign ministers to discuss all matters — not merely Italy and the Balkans. So, he said, he proposed to discuss other questions at London.

Finally, however, they began with Italy. No great difficulty arose. They reached the question of Italian reparations. Then the Russians said they wanted the Italians to pay $600,000,000. The British chimed in, said they also wanted large reparations from the Italians. At this point, Byrnes cracked down, said that the U. S. A. would be footing the bill in the long run and flatly refused to go along.

As a result, all reparations plans for Italy were left unsettled, except that the U. S., Britain and Russia agreed to retain for the time being those portions of the Italian fleet and merchant marine which they had seized during the war.

First big blow-up came when the Russians tried to do some horse trading on Italian colonies. After Byrnes had suggested the Italian colonies be put under some sort of trusteeship arrangement, Molotov came out for an individual trusteeship over Tripoli, and he frankly admitted that Russia desired a sphere of influence in the Mediterranean. But Bevin and Byrnes flatly refused.

Molotov hinted broadly that he was prepared to make certain concessions in the Balkans to the British and Americans in exchange for a Russian sphere of influence in North Africa, but Byrnes refused to do any horse trading. Instead, he began hammering at the way the Russians were dominating their Balkan satellites.

In the course of this deadlock, Byrnes brought up the question of the Dardanelles which locks the Russians up in the Black Sea. Byrnes said the U. S. and Britain were against the harsh terms which Molotov sought to impose upon Turkey to secure control over the Dardanelles.

Panama Canal Question
Molotov replied that Russia must have complete and free access to the Dardanelles both in war and peace. But Bevin and Byrnes remained adamant.

Whereupon Molotov said, "How about discussing the Suez canal and our relationship to it?"

This made Foreign Minister Bevin furious. But Molotov proceeded to add fuel to the flames. Turning to Byrnes he said:

"Well, let's discuss the Panama canal and its relationship to the United States."

This enraged Byrnes, who indicated to Molotov that the Panama canal was none of Russia's damn business.

To this Molotov replied that if the Suez canal and the Panama canal were none of Russia's business, then the Dardanelles were none of the United States' and Great Britain's business.

Half way through the conference, Molotov made Byrnes livid with rage by walking into one meeting and demanding that Russia be given the right to participate in General MacArthur's control of Japan at a high level. Molotov did not criticize MacArthur's actions, contrary to some reports. He said that the Russians had helped win the war in the Pacific and expected adequate representation in the questions arising from Japan's defeat.

Byrnes became so angry that he delivered a scorching 30-minute speech so hot that at one point Molotov stood up to walk out. Noting this, Byrnes stopped and the meeting cooled down.

In the course of later discussions on Japan, Byrnes explained this country's great need of a chain of island bases in the Pacific for security purposes against Japan. Molotov laughed. He hinted strongly that Russia felt the United States wanted the bases solely for defense against the Soviet Union. "OK," he said, "you've got your naval bases in the Pacific. Then we want Panamashiro. If you're going to have your ring of steel, we'll have ours."

Tragic results of the three-week session were a definite setback to world peace. The American delegation came woefully unprepared, was unable to meet Molotov's sharp attacks with anything but a dull defense. Our cause seriously suffered. Meanwhile, Italy was left hanging on a limb and nothing was accomplished towards improving the desperate situation in Russia's satellite Balkan countries.

It will take some very statesmanlike diplomacy to repair the damage done by the Big Five London conference.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Check up on Stomach Upsets

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Indigestion or dyspepsia is a term applied by lay persons to fullness, gas soreness, pain, nausea, vomiting, or any other complaint which seems to be connected with the stomach or bowel.

A large clinic where people go for check-ups reported that 50 per cent of its patients listed some kind of stomach or bowel complaint as one of the reasons for the examination.

What are the chances that indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach or bowel complaint are caused by organic disease? The chances are good, for the same clinic reported that 50 per cent of men 40 and older who had indigestion, stomach or bowel complaint were suffering with ulcer of the stomach or duodenum, or gallbladder disease, or cancer of the stomach, intestines, pancreas or liver.

Emotion A Factor
In the same age group 40 per cent of the women had gallbladder infection or stones, ulcer or cancer of stomach, or cancer of pancreas or intestine. In the rest of the patients the cause was either outside the stomach or intestines, or it was due to emotional factors.

Self-diagnosis of these complaints is dangerous. The proper thing to do is to consult a physician. History is important with this complaint. Detailed analysis of the exact nature of the distress and its relation to time of day, taking of food, rest and sleep, work, play, feelings, home life, occupation, cyclic functions of the body, etc., should be made.

Laboratory tests are of value in the study of patients with stomach and bowel complaints. Little is gained by doing a large number of routine tests unless they are indicated. Two tests stand out; a search for acid in the stomach contents, and search for hidden blood in excretion. X-ray examination is of greatest value. The use of the fluoroscope, flat abdominal films, and examination of the stomach and intestines after an opaque meal, in experienced hands, can bring out many disease details.

Stomach Examination
Gastroscopic examination is indicated when the results of X-ray examination is of greatest value. There is a strong suggestion of organic disease. A flexible lighted tube is passed into the stomach, and the interior is examined.

Patients who have indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach, or bowel complaints may have emotional problems. The effect of organic disease and of emotional conflict may be difficult to separate, but examination usually will give the answer. At times, both organic disease and emotional factors are present. If organic disease of the stomach or intestines is present, special treatment is recommended. If emotional factors are the cause, the treatment is psychotherapeutic.

ESME OF PARIS by Esme Davis

Illustrated by George Scarbo
Distributed by NEA

I SPENT the first two years of my life shuttling between New York, California, and Hawaii, where my mother sought to regain her health. She had been seriously ill after I was born, and father never wanted her to return to the operatic stage. Her determination to do so, however, created a break between them that widened with the years, until they eventually became separated.

This situation was a great grief to my father and made him unhappy on my account, for I never had a home life in the sense that most people think of one. That is to say, I can not remember a single warmly familiar spot from which I could set out or to which I could return.

I was two years old when we sailed to Europe to join my grandmother, then at the height of her theatrical triumphs. My brother was sent to school in England while mother resumed her singing. Mother and grandmother often told me about my first appearance on any stage. It happened during the year of 1908 in Turin, Italy. Mother was singing there in Puccini's operas in an effort to condition her voice for heavier roles after her long illness. The child used in the last act of "Madame Butterfly" to impersonate the baby was taken ill during the performance. Grandmother, a hound for punishment, offered my services as a solution to the dilemma.

I was, of course, too small to walk properly and used to do most of my traveling by crawling on the floor. In the last act of the opera, Madame Butterfly sets the child in the middle of the stage and gives him American and Japanese flags to play with, then retires behind a screen upstage to commit hara-kiri and sings the aria, "Piccolo Idolo, Addio." This is the "punch" of the whole opera, and the audience is supposed to be filled with deep emotion. Although used to peculiar noises in theaters, the row mother was making behind the screen aroused my curiosity. I probably thought some one was murdering her and she needed help, so I turned my back on the footlights and started to crawl toward the screen on my hands and knees, showing to the audience a little pair of white buttocks.

It stopped the show.

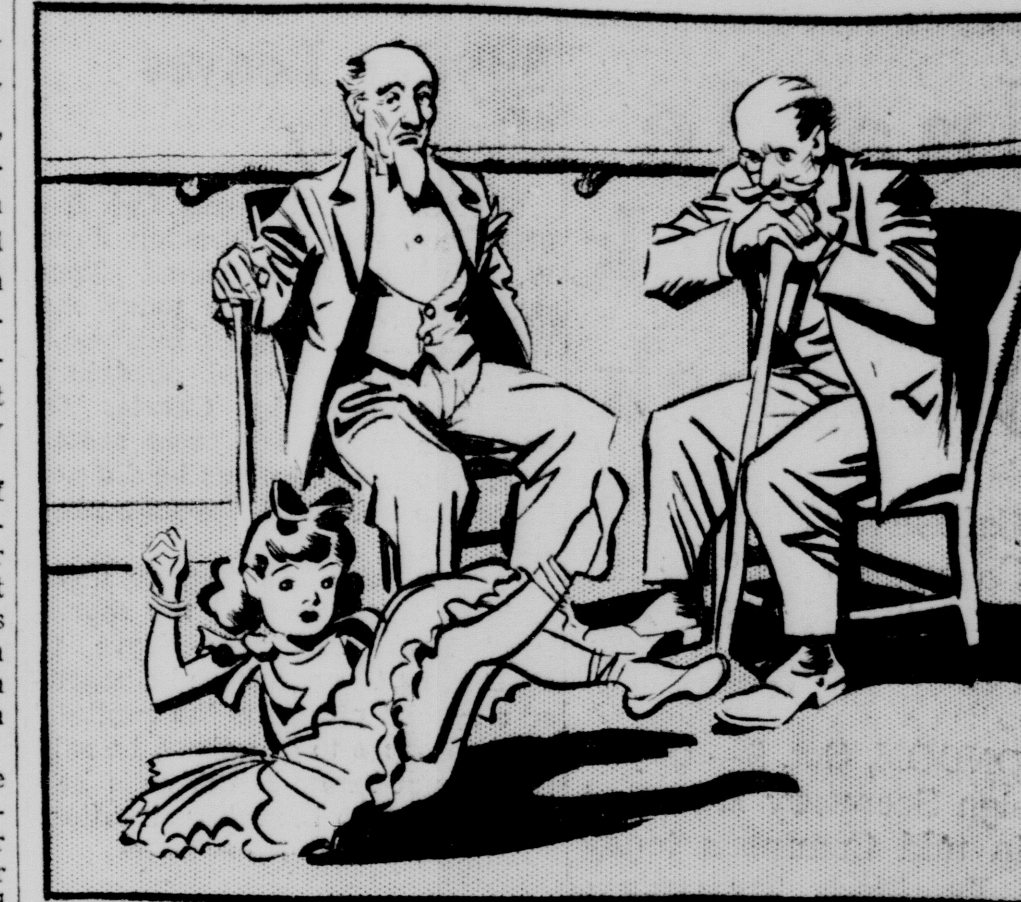

I WAS five-and-a-half years old when we arrived in Russia. I commenced ballet school almost at once, going to a school for children kept by an old French woman, Madame Verdain. I do not have any of the usual happy childhood recollections about the place but remember there was always a Russian priest in black robes sneaking in and out of doorways, and my grandmother slapped me almost every time she came to call for me, because it was so cold and because I fought with most of the pupils, especially a boy phenomenon who played the piano and wore thick glasses. I don't remember much about it, but I think I must have done a good job on him, because they took me away after that to another school for a year, where I progressed to music and languages.

The Neldova Ballet School held examinations in dancing which were decisive for professional children, and the weeks before them were filled with constant nagging and slappings from my grandmother, on the "spare the rod and spoil the child" principle, and rare moments with my mother when she deplored my hands. I have always had powerful hands, a handicap in ballet (no pun intended) but good for piano. I played extremely well for a child, and they told mother I could be a concert pianist. I learned the guitar from grandmother, the concertina and banjo for fun. They overworked me at home, and I was always tired and cold.

There were long discussions about my appearance. Mother decided I had good feet and eyes, but grandmother thought me hopeless, on account of my Irish blood. The inferiority complex brought on by these criticisms nearly cost me my exam. In addition, there were arguments over my dress, a white "tutu" with rosebuds.

On the examination day they weakened and poked at me for an hour before I danced, until I was completely worn out; then mother sat down with the teachers and some decrepit old gentlemen who were, I suppose, "balletomanes" looking for future Pavlovas. Everything I had learned went out of my head. I seldom cried as a child but bottled up my emotions, which made matters worse. There is a movement in ballet called a "grande jete," really very simple, needing only balance on arrival. Unfortunately I overdid it when I stopped on my toe, lost my balance, and landed flat on my "tutu" in a sitting position amid a horrified silence.

On the day of the ballet examination, I overdid a leap, lost my balance, and landed flat on my "tutu" in a sitting position amid a horrified silence.

All the same they passed me for I eventually recovered my composure and outdid the other pupils in a "Pizzicato" by Drigo on my toes, which were always my best feature.

AFTER a performance of "Boris Godunov" in Moscow, mother became very ill with a sore throat that developed into quinsy. Grandmother gave up contracts to nurse her, and as the allowance my father could send was not enough for so much expense, we gradually became financially embarrassed. Princess Solikoff, an old friend of mother's, took me to stay with her.

After her illness, mother went with grandmother for some time, to regain her health in the warmer climate of the Crimea, and on her return it was decided something had to be done with me. I think mother must have been too ill to be consulted about the future, but obviously I could not accept the hospitality of Princess Solikoff indefinitely, so grandmother took the situation in hand, arranging for me to work in a children's troupe called the "Ograinsky Wonder Children." Ograinsky, owner and director, agreed to train me, and I was to receive a small salary for my work in the act, for a period of three years, the contract then to be renewed.

Opposition To Osceola Dam

Rep. Bennett Says If Built Would Destroy Towns

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 9—(P)—Opposition to congressional appropriations for construction of a flood control dam and reservoir at Osceola, Mo., was announced Monday by Rep. Bennett (R-Mo.) (R-Mo.)
A war department deficiency appropriation bill has been introduced in the house calling for a lump sum of $1,496,670,000 to be spent on various projects authorized under the 1933 flood control act, Bennett said in a statement. It includes funds for construction of the Bull Shoals Flood control project near the Missouri-Arkansas line in Arkansas. Bennett said he would like to support this project, but added:
"I cannot do so, however, if forced to vote on a measure which carries both the Osceola and Bull Shoals projects," he declared. "The good which the latter would do is less than the harm of the former to my district."
If an appropriation is granted for the Osceola project, Bennett asserted, he will insist upon an amendment "so that power can be added, a permanent pool of considerable size be assured and some recreation and industrial benefit come from the tremendous dislocations and expense which this project would entail."

The pending legislation would earmark about $1,000,000 to be spent on the Osceola dam before July 1.

Says Towns Would Be Destroyed
Bennett contended that if the project is built as planned it would:

"Completely destroy" the towns of Roscoe, Monegaw Springs, Taberville, Horton, Arthur and Papinsville and "largely inundate" Schell City, Metz and Rockville.

Some 1,100 families including 40,000 citizens would have to be moved.

Many highways and improvements would be destroyed including 52 miles of state and federal highways, 40 miles of railway, 450 miles of country roads, 10.6 miles of pipe lines, 47.6 miles of power lines, 212 miles of telephone lines, four resorts, 22 cemeteries with 1,280 graves, 17 rural schools, six churches and several mines. Highway 71 between Butler and Nevada would have to be relocated for 23 miles at an estimated cost of $4,096,000. There would be a permanent flood of 295,000 acres in Bates, St. Clair, Cedar and Vernon counties.

Child Drowns In A Cistern

VERSAILLES, Oct. 9—Donald Pryor, aged seven, was found drowned in a cistern at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Pryor, here Monday night after a searching party had been organized to look for him after he had been reported missing.

The child was last seen by his mother about 4:15 o'clock playing in the back yard after he had returned from school and it was stated a top over the cistern was not very secure and that it was partly uncovered.

The body was found by Everett Hess and Rev. A. L. Burnett, who had joined the searchers. Sticks were floating on the water in the cistern and earlier some of the party had casually glanced down on them but failed to see the body which later was removed from the water.

Coroner B. L. Medicus, a pharmacist, of Versailles conducted an inquest at which it was established that the child's death was purely accidental.

The child besides his parents is survived by two other children of Mr. and Mrs. Pryor.

Talk Is Given By Byrnes On Foreign Policy

Committee In A Receptive Mood To His Report

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes talked foreign policy with the senate foreign relations committee for nearly three hours Monday and apparently left its members generally satisfied with the course he followed at the London foreign ministers conference.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) told reporters, "I am in complete sympathy with Mr. Byrnes' statement and am standing back of him." Similarly, Senator George (D-Ga.) said he did not see how Byrnes could have followed any other course at London.

Lucas referred to Byrnes' report to the nation on the radio last Friday night in which the secretary of state said the conference ended in a stalemate when it became obvious no agreement could be reached at that time unless the other delegations yielded "their views and convictions" to the Soviets.

The majority difficulty at London was over Soviet objections to participation by France and China in settlement of Balkan problems.

United States policy toward Argentina was said to have gotten only minor attention today.

Deemed Frank Report One member said he thought there was little disagreement in the committee or among other American nations with this country's hardened attitude toward Argentina.

Byrnes' discussion was termed a "very frank report" on the whole foreign situation.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) said "pretty much all aspects" of the situation in "Europe, Japan and South America" were covered today.

"That is about all I can tell you," he added to reporters.

Byrnes had asked for the conference immediately upon returning last week from the foreign ministers meeting.

There was said to be a feeling among some committee members that the state department should have consulted the senators before it moved for cancellation of the inter-American conference which was scheduled for the latter part of this month.

Possibly indicating that the committee feels reassured about the inter-American action, which was aimed at Argentina, Connally said a vote probably will be taken Wednesday on the nomination of Spruille Braden to be assistant secretary of state.

Braden, former ambassador to Buenos Aires, is widely credited with responsibility for the recently toughened policy of the United States toward Argentina.

Action on his nomination was withheld when it first came before the committee last Wednesday.

Picking an Insult, Sen. Hart Declares

if they want to work."

Williams said he talked with a young war veteran this morning who had worked only three days on the sidewalk project before picketing stopped the construction.

"Someone better do something," he quoted the young man as saying. "If they don't, 13,000,000 of us will."

Both Hart and Williams criticized President Truman for not staying in Washington at his desk. The president visited the Caruthersville, Mo., fair over the weekend.

Criticize Truman

"I think the president of the United States ought to be in his office in Washington, down on his knees trying to solve this problem..." Williams said. "It's going to end in bloodshed if it keeps up."

Hart's resolution was laid over for a day.

As the pickets paced slowly in front of the repair project, employees of the highway department prepared to mix their own concrete for the sidewalk.

The pickets stopped delivery of concrete by union drivers of a private contractor yesterday on complaint of local 662 of the hod carriers, building and common laborers union (AFL) that the work should not be done by non-union highway department employees.

Union Leader's Comment B. F. Branson, chairman of the union local, said he felt that union labor should be given the work. He would not say what the union will do with the highway department terminating its contract with the concrete company and using department equipment to finish the job.

Branson said two electricians and a carpenter, members of AFL unions and regular employees of the state, stopped work yesterday in sympathy with local 662.

The difficulty arose several weeks ago, he said, when union representatives went to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly to ask that union labor replace the non-union workers of extensive repairs to capitol drives and walks.

Governor Donnelly told his press conference today he understood the question had all been settled earlier in the talks with union men.

Other work on the capitol grounds being done by the highway department has not been picketed.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK, Oct. 9—(AP)—On top of the news from Chicago that the major league club owners and presidents are none too happy about Happy Chandler's administration of baseball comes word from our old friend, Mr. Reliable Source, that the minors have the same idea for slightly different reasons. . . . So don't be surprised if someone gets up at the December minor league convention and proposes limiting the commissioner's jurisdiction even though nothing can be done at that time. . . . The minor leaguers are peeved at Chandler's declaration that their bonus rule is both unfair and illegal. They figure small independent clubs can't afford to pay bonuses and they'll be forced to do it if the "chain gang" clubs are given that privilege. . . . Add to that a rubarb between Chandler and the baseball writers over World Series scoring and some hot words between Larry MacPhail, supposedly Happy's principal backer, and minor league boss W. G. Bramham, and you can see that Chandler won't have to go south for a warm winter.

Sid Feder Says Zaniest Series In History

By Sid Feder
CHICAGO, Oct. 9—(AP)—It is a photo finish as to whether the ball players or the fans were dizzier from the antics that threw this weird world series between the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs into the full seven-game route. The question now is not which team will win the series tomorrow, but which team will boot it.

The way things have been going through this freakiest of all fall frolics — not omitting the about face by the official scorers on the decisive play in yesterday's game — it appears that the club which finally finishes in front will do so only because it can't help itself. The other outfit won't let it lose.

They're going to need the finale of this richest of all series at 1:30 p. m. (EST) tomorrow all because of yesterday's "rubarb" that the Tigers finally lost to the Cubs 8-7 in 12 innings of something that resembled baseball.

In yesterday's game there were such doings as 38 players parading about the premises; a base-runner falling flat on his face with home plate in sight; dinky fly balls falling for hits while fly chasers bowed politely; enough throws to wrong bases to bring a suggestion for a radar set in the infield and an assortment of pitching by nine flingers.

On the other side there was Hank Greenberg's homer in the eighth that topped off a four run Detroit rally and tied the game. And Stan Hack's four hits, the last of which, with two away and a mate on first in the 12th broke up the ball game.

It was on the original ruling on Hack's hit in the 12th that the official scorers reversed themselves. Dizzy Trout, five-hit winner of Saturday's game, was in there for the Detroitis by that time — the fifth Bengal pitcher during the afternoon.

Frank Secory had lounded him for a single and Billy Schuster was sent in to run. Hack, who'd knocked in two tallies during a four-run Cub rally in the fifth, hit the 2-1 pitch through short and on into left field.

Hank Greenberg came in to field it and Schuster slowed up coming into third. Then the ball took a crazy jump over Greenberg's shoulder and kept right on its merry way out to the left field wall. By the time Hank caught up with it, Schuster was home.

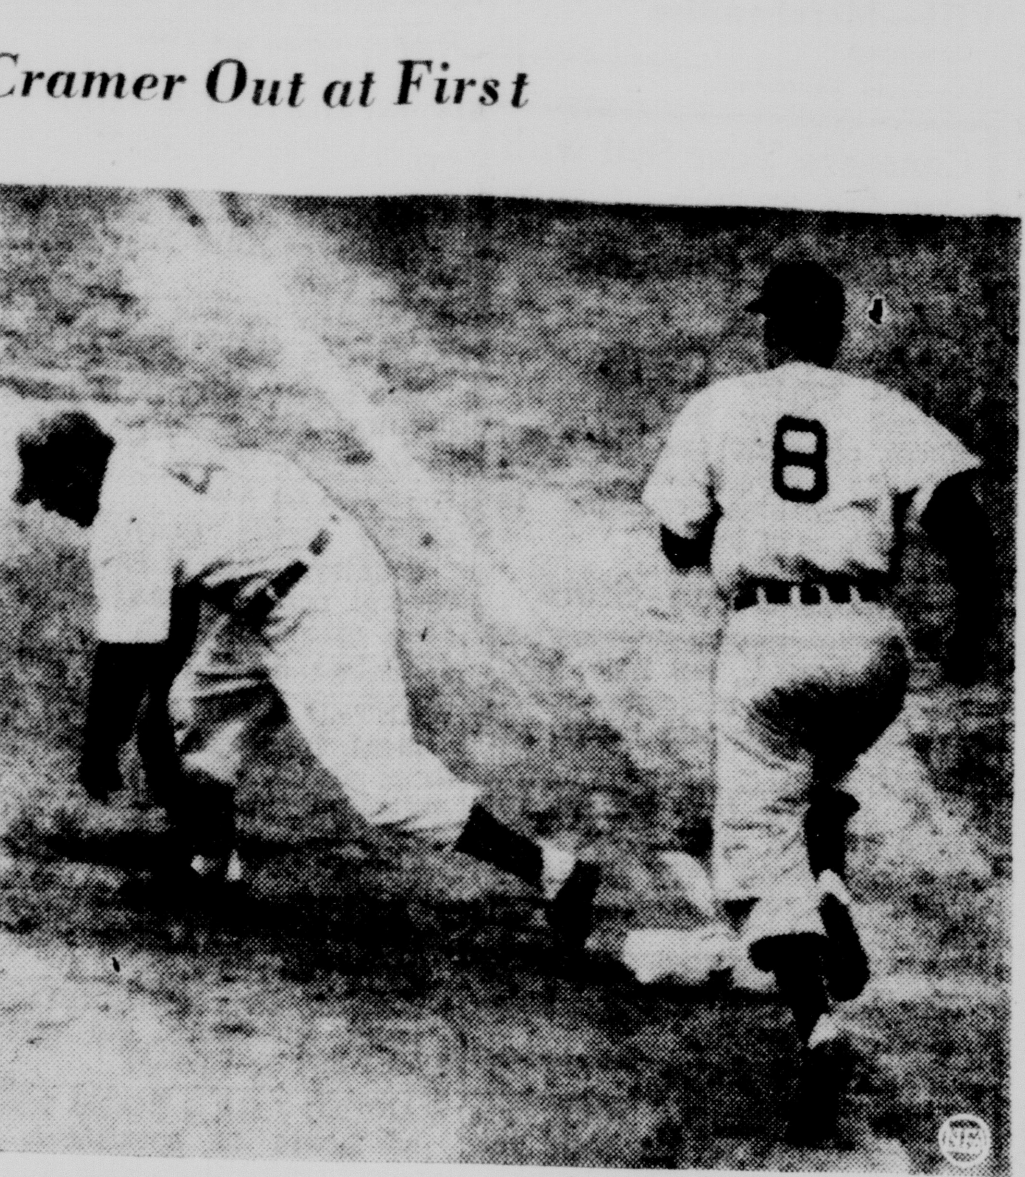

Hack was on second and the series was tied at three games apiece.

The scorers ruled it a single for Hack and an error for Hank. This started a sizzling stew among baseball writers and baseball men.

Five hours later the scorers announced they'd re-counted the votes and ruled it a two-bagger and no boggle for Greenberg. Hack who's leading the series with a .440 batting mark, didn't know whether to cheer about the extra-baser he was handed, or moan about the switch. Because when the scorers gave him that double, it cut his number of singles for the day to three. This removed his name from the record books even before it was written in among the few players who've clouted the record four singles in one game, making Stan probably the shortest-term record holder in history.

As a result of his game-wrecker the win went to the second hero Hank of this series — Borowy — who won the opener last Wednesday and was clubbed out in six rounds Sunday. Hank came on in the ninth, after Claude Passeau and a couple of other collapsing Cub curvers had taken the long walk, and pitched four scoreless innings for his second win of the set.

The Tigers are in a lot better spot for the "add game" tomorrow than the National leaguers. Detroit has Lefty Hal Newhouse, who's won one and dropped one so far in the series, ready to go, with Lefty Stubby Overmire set to play fireman.

(NEA TELEPHOTO)
Roger Cramer, Tigers' center fielder, is out at first base in the first inning of the sixth world series game at Wrigley Field. Johnson threw to Cavarretta, to retire the side.

The Cubs had to use all four of their regular starters — Hank Wyse and Ray Prim in addition to Passeau and Borowy — to win yesterday's game. Although Borowy has asked for permission to go to the post, the chances are Manager Charlie might use someone like Paul Derringer or Paul Erickson or Hy Vandenberg to start the game. As a result, the lobby bookies are quoting 2 to 3, Detroit for the big pot.

Hack's four belts yesterday gave him a total of 11 for the series, within one of the all-time record. This was one of the very few sane marks approached, equalled or surpassed during the fantastic contest. Another was the all-time financial high of $1,388,277 set for a series' gross receipts.

Other highlights of the game included the 3 hours and 28 minutes it took to finish it, which is 34 minutes longer than any other series scramble; 38 players — 19 for each team, nine pitchers who walked in and out; 94 at bats for the two clubs 48 of them for the Tigers, 24 men left on bases.

Notes on the 1945 Series

By Jerry Liska
CHICAGO, Oct. 9—(AP)—Gus Phan thinks this is a great world series, no matter how much the boys up in the press box needle it as a classic example of how not to play major league baseball.

Only 37,184 patrons have to push through the Wrigley Field turnstiles for tomorrow's deciding seventh game to tie the 1926 attendance record of 328,051 for a limit series. Yesterday's chilled throng of 41,708 was the smallest at the three games already played here. A total of 290,867 fans have attended the six games to date.

While Managers Charley Grimm of the Cubs and Steve O'Neill of the Tigers pull their hair and veteran scribes shake their heads in sad dismay over the antics of the contenders, the series already has pumped a record $1,388,277 into baseball's coffers.

It seemed impossible that as zany a series as this one could finish without a well-horned goat and it won't. The nomination of the moment goes to Pinch-hitter Charley Hostetler of the Tigers who took a Mack Sennett spill en route home in the seventh inning with what would have been the winning run.

When you stop to realize that Mr. Hostetler is 40 years old, it's hard to criticize him for gasping for breath flat on his face while Catcher Mickey Livingston got or-

M.U. Tigers May be Minus Eigelberger

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9—(AP)—The University of Missouri will face Iowa State this Saturday minus Bob Eichelberger, the left guard, unless the latter recovers sooner than expected from a leg injury received in the game with Southern Methodist Saturday.

Bob Hopkins, left halfback, Bill Whataker, left end, and Peter Ihm, quarterback, also were hurt in Missouri's victorious assault on SMU.

At Manhattan, the Wildcats are smoothing their ruffled fur following their defeat at the hands of the Olathe Naval Air Station, and are plotting a comeback against Marquette at Milwaukee Saturday. None of the squad seriously injured.

Between Fenelon and Graham: No Limit

WRESTLING MATCHES

Main Event	Ken Fenelon vs. Roy Graham
Dallas, Tex.	Dubuque, Ia.

Semi-Windup	Jerry Meeker vs. Dan O'Connor
Columbus, Ohio	Boston, Mass.

Opening Event	Cliff Olson vs. Dick Lever
Minneapolis, Minn.	Memphis, Tenn.
Best fall with a 30-minute time limit.
Time: 8:30 p. m. Tuesday night.
Place: State Guard Armory.

At 8:30 o'clock tonight another of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion wrestling shows will be presented. This time with three new wrestlers on the program coupled with a real headline main event, one which will give to local fans plenty of exciting moments.

Ken Fenelon, this afternoon in talking of his match with Roy Graham, explained he felt confident he could defeat the boy from Texas under a no-time limit match. "I had him going in our match last week, when the forty-five minute time ran out and the match was stopped. That's why I wanted to meet him again."

Graham won the first fall in their match last week, but that was the only fall had in the match which was to have gone for the best two out of three. He isn't appearing to be much worried over Fenelon beating him tonight.

The semi-windup brings together Jerry Meeker and Don O'Connor, the latter of Boston who is making his debut in Sedalia tonight. Meeker can take care of himself in the ring and O'Connor, if he isn't used to the mid-westternational Shoe factory, Windsor, Missouri.

Pvt. Witt participated in the New Guinea and Luzon campaigns.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—(AP)—It'll be Hank Borowy pitching for the Chicago Cubs and Hal Newhouser for the Detroit Tigers in tomorrow's seventh and decisive world series game in Wrigley field.

Manager Charlie Grimm announced Borowy this morning. Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tigers tabbed Newhouser for the important assignment soon after yesterday's rousing 12-inning -7 victory by the Cubs which enabled them to square the series at three games apiece.

Borowy already has appeared in three series games and came out of them with a record of two wins and one defeat. He made his last appearance yesterday, going to the mound in the ninth inning. He was the fourth Cub twirler in the free-hitting contest.

DEAD CALM IN A HURRICANE ?

In the very midst of a hurricane you'd be safe! Its center is sort of "hollow" . . . calm. All weather packs surprises, you bet—especially Winter weather. Yet you can bet on having your aging car face it safely, with the engine's insides under guard of OIL-PLATING!

Changing to Conoco Nth motor oil is all it takes for an OIL-PLATED engine—fortified throughout with lubricant bonded to metal direct, by the magnet-like action of Conoco Nth oil's added ingredient! OIL-PLATED metal defies corrosion and other wear. Surfaces kept OIL-PLATED during long cold waits have protective lubricant ready in advance to minimize starting wear. And always—the less wear, the less reason for carbon, sludge, and breakdown. You bet you want Conoco Nth oil for Winter. Change today.

Comfort Keynotes New Luxury Skyliner

Those heretofore-fantastic luxury liners of the sky are now in sight as the nation's airlines bring their "flying stock" up to date. United Airlines has ordered 50 four-engined Douglas DC-6 to-coast flights in 1946, the five-mile-a-minute airliners will carry 52 or more passengers, plus 5500 pounds of cargo and reduce cross-country travel to nine and one-half hours or less. SOCIAL EVENTS

Meet the Clarks

In dedication of the new flag at Sorsos club Monday afternoon O. B. Poundstone, guest speaker, paid an unusually beautiful tribute to the flag of the United States as he told the meaning of that flag to the people of America.

Just a few months ago, Mr. Poundstone said, a battle worn photographer thrilled Americans all over the world with a picture. It was a picture of a group of United States Marines planting a flag on a tiny island in the Pacific. It had been a hard and bloody battle but the Marines had just taken this island from a treacherous foe. And then they did a peculiar thing. Tired and weary as they were they climbed to the highest hill on this island, which was no more than a pin point in the Pacific, and there they planted their flag.

There was poetry in the soul of that war photographer as he watched and he took that picture which will live forever in American hearts.

"Why did they plant the American flag on this island? It was their reason for being there, it marked another milestone in American history," the speaker said.

"This war has just been finished and already the weapons used are obsolete. There is very little hope of peace without military force. Twenty-two delegates have just met, all big men selected to settle the differences between countries and they have failed, just on the small things. If they cannot settle the simplest things how can they settle the major things."

"But so long as Americans thrill at the picture of a flag being raised on a Pacific island, so long as men and women are willing to give their lives for their country, so long as organizations like this one give honor to that flag, we shall go forward," Mr. Poundstone said.

"Our flag is the symbol of unity. In it is the strength of our nation. It brings us together into a group that makes us the greatest nation on earth."

Mr. Poundstone concluded his talk with a short prayer in which he said: "May God grant that the flag of the United States of America continue to float as a beacon in this dark frenzied world and guide that world home to peace."

A patriotic musical program fitting for the occasion was presented under the direction of Mrs. George Lovercamp.

The program opened with the group singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," after which Mrs. H. C. Salveter and Mrs. Ralph Guenther, as a two piano number played, "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar.

Mrs. Lovercamp, Mrs. W. L. Lewis and Mrs. D. C. Demand sang, "Flag of My Country," by Wister and "For This Dear Land," by Lorenz.

The last number on the program was a two piano number, "Stars and Stripes Forever," by Sousa, with Mrs. Salveter and Mrs. Ralph Guenther at the pianos.

Miss Etta Hurley, of the Civics department, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Austin Hurley, president, presided.

A tea and reception honoring the new members followed the program. The dining table was centered with a crystal bowl of chrysanthemums and gladioli in autumn colors with yellow tapers in crystal holders at either side.

Mrs. Austin Hurley, president, and Mrs. D. S. Lamm, vice president, poured.

The social committee, of which Mrs. Philip McLaughlin is chairman, served. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Leon Archias, Mrs. Henry R. Harris, Miss Nina Harris, Mrs. W. P. Hurley, Mrs. John Sneed, Mrs. E. M. Stafford, Jr., Miss Frances Trader, Mrs. A. L. Walter and Mrs. George Yeaman.

The Sorsos scrap book, which is very attractive, was on display. The book was made by Mrs. A. W. Klang, and illustrated by Miss Marion Keens.

Mrs. Cecil Owen, chairman of the Art and Drama department, announced that Mrs. Robert Troxwell, Associate Regional Director, Building Service of U. S. O., Kansas City, will be the guest speaker next week. Her subject will be, "Making Homes for Men."

The Young Musicians club held its first recital of the fall season at the home of the teacher, Mrs. Jewel Harter Thomas, 401 Dal-Whi-Mo court, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The Loyal Sunday school class of the Epworth Methodist church will meet at the home of Mrs. Clifford Hayes, 304 North Summit avenue, Wednesday afternoon October 10.

Gary Cramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Cramer, 812 South Barrett avenue, celebrated his fifth birthday anniversary Monday at the Sedalia Kindergarten where he is a pupil.

Discuss Plans For Teen Town

Improvements In Contemplation By The Board

Plans were discussed for contemplated improvements, at the Teen Town quarters on East Third street, during a regular Senior board meeting held at 8:00 o'clock Monday night in the office of Probate Judge Jacob E. Smith with Carl Urban, presiding.

A committee of parents from the Smith-Cotton P. T. A. was present and they exchanged several ideas with the board, that are expected to be helpful.

Several added betterments were discussed for the club. The finance drive is now taking place to raise funds for the coming year. Expenses were discussed and it was declared twice the present fund is needed to keep the club in operation.

Increasing interest of parents for the club and its support was evidenced by volunteers.

Chairman Carl Urban states every parent is urged to cooperate to the fullest.
